

Privacy Policy

Raptor Ridge Ranch Pty Ltd and all its associates is committed to respecting the privacy of your personal and sensitive information. We are bound by the Australian Privacy Principles in the Privacy Act 1988 (Commonwealth) and other applicable laws. Data protection and information security is of the utmost importance, so you can have trust and confidence in dealing with our organisation.

We want to be transparent in explaining how and why we gather, store, share and use your personal information. Accordingly, this document provides a clear set of guidelines so that you can understand how we manage your personal information, the steps we take to protect your privacy as well as how, when and where we may collect, hold, use and disclose your personal information. It covers all personal information provided by you or your applicants, as well as other individuals who have given their written consent to us to conduct or to otherwise use or services.

This privacy policy is in addition to our Terms and Conditions which can be found on our web site www.raptorridgehunts.com

‘Personal Information’ and ‘Sensitive Information’ Defined

Personal information means information or an opinion about an identified individual or an individual who is reasonably identifiable, whether the information or opinion is true or not and recorded in a material form or not.

Sensitive information means information or an opinion about, amongst other things, an individual’s criminal record that is also personal information or health information about an individual.

References to personal information in this policy include sensitive information except where indicated otherwise.

We will reasonably ensure that personal information we collect, use or disclose is accurate, complete and up to date.

As a user of our services, you will be able to confirm that the information that you or your associates have provided is true and correct prior to submitting the data.

What personal information do we collect and hold?

The personal information we collect and hold about you or your associates includes information that you or your associates choose to provide us in the contacts form and subscription Blog, or which you or your associates otherwise provide to us (including by way of forms and other documents or information you submit to us (whether in paper or electronic form). This information may include you or your applicant’s name, address, phone number, email address, credit card details, date of birth, contact details, drivers licence details, passport details, or any other information you provide to us or authorise us to obtain.

Where we receive unsolicited sensitive information from a third party, we will destroy the information in a prompt and timely manner in accordance with our legal requirements. Under no instance will we keep unsolicited sensitive information.

We may also collect data about how you use our website or other websites you have visited so we can tailor our service to meet our customers' needs. We may aggregate and de-identify this information ('Aggregate Information') and use the Aggregate Information to help us understand customer trends and to make improvements to our website and our services. We may share the Aggregate Information with third parties, including to improve our services and understand what our customers want, and we may use this data for advertising and marketing purposes. Aggregate Information may also be disclosed to third parties for the third parties' advertising and marketing purposes.

Why and how do we collect, hold, use and disclose your personal information?

- for proof of identity purposes;
- to process payments for our services;
- to provide the results of an identity check to any person you or your associates authorise us to;

Where we collect personal information, we will only process it:

- to perform a contract with you;
- where we have legitimate interests to process the personal information and they're not overridden by your rights;
- in accordance with our legal obligations; or
- where we have your consent.

We may disclose personal information to the following kinds of entities for the relevant purposes mentioned above:

- our contractors, consultants, advisers, associates and related entities;
- any industry body, tribunal, court or otherwise in connection with any complaint made by you about us;
- other entities or third parties with your consent (such as third parties who you have agreed may access to your personal information for verification purposes) or as permitted or required by law.
- to comply with our obligations under any agreement we have with the Police Firearms registry.
- We only collect personal information about an individual where the information is reasonably necessary for one or more of the above functions.

You consent to us using and disclosing personal information for these purposes or any other purpose we obtain consent for (Secondary Purpose). Without limitation, such a Secondary Purpose which you consent to us taking reasonable steps to de-identify your personal information, such as by removing your personal identifiers, (De-identified Data) and disclose such De-identified Data to third parties or otherwise use the De-identified Data.

All personal information will be collected lawfully, fairly and not in an intrusive way. If we are unable to collect your personal information, we may be unable to provide you with all our services, and some functions and features on our website may not be available to you.

Direct Marketing

We may use your personal information, including your contact details, to provide you with information about products and services (including those of third parties) which we consider may be of interest to you.

We may also provide your details to other organisations for specific marketing purposes.

At any time you may advise us that you do not wish to receive marketing communications. You may opt out at any time if you no longer wish to receive marketing information or do not wish to receive marketing information through a particular channel (such as by email, telephone, sms, or mail).

If you do not want us to send you marketing communications via email you can opt out at any time by using the unsubscribe option available. To opt out of all other means of communication, please contact us through our Contacts page on this email

How we hold and protect your personal information

We are committed to protecting your personal information. We implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to help protect the security of your personal information; however, please note that no system is ever completely secure. We have implemented various policies including pseudonymisation, encryption, access, and retention policies to guard against unauthorised access and unnecessary retention of personal information in our systems.

We store personal information we collect in relation to you or your applicants in various ways, including in electronic form using third party data storage providers. All information that is stored electronically is password protected on secure servers.

As at the date of this privacy policy, any personal information we possess about you will only be stored in Australia.

Our aim is to ensure that all personal information is securely protected from misuse, loss, and unauthorised access, modification or disclosure by way of maintaining:

- physical security by preventing unauthorised access to our premises;
- computer network security, including password security to prevent unauthorised access;
- communication security; and
- limiting access to our authorised staff and contractors.

When personal information is no longer needed we will take reasonable steps to destroy and/or de-identify that information (see also the 'Retention' section below).

We have current security measures in place to prevent unauthorised use of our identity verification check service including:

- capturing IP addresses;
- capturing payment information; and
- signatures.

Why will we disclose information to another organisation?

We will disclose your information only in accordance with the professional services we provide as set out in this privacy policy.

We want to provide our customers with the very best products and services. At times we may partner with other organisations to support the products and services we offer. We may transfer personal information to effectively deliver services to you.

For example we may partner with a third party provider who is able to determine the authenticity of your identity documents to ensure that your proof of identity requirements are met as efficiently as possible. In addition, we may partner with a third party provider who is able to monitor that emails sent to you has not bounced back, thus increasing our communication efficiency.

We may disclose personal information to other recipients for the purposes of using or liaising with verification sources as well as monitoring our emails sent and received. This information may include you or your associates name, address, date of birth, contact details, drivers licence details, passport details, or such other information we notify to you.

We may disclose Aggregate Information to a third party to better our services for our customers and improve our services.

We may use Google Analytics to track Aggregate Information. This tracking does not contain any sensitive information.

For further information, please contact us using the details set out below.

How can you access to your personal information and correct it if it is wrong?

If necessary, you or your associates may request access to the personal information that we hold about you or them (as applicable), under Australian Privacy Principles 12 and 13. We will provide this information upon request or otherwise as required by law. You may obtain this information by contacting us using the details in our contacts page of the web site.

The Freedom of Information Act 1982 (FOI Act) may give any person the right to:

- access copies of documents (except exempt documents) we hold;
- ask for information we hold about you to be changed or annotated if it is incomplete, out of date, incorrect or misleading; and
- seek a review of our decision not to allow you access to a document or not to amend your personal record.

We may require you to identify and specify what information and documents you require access to. You can ask to see any document that we hold. We may refuse access to some documents, or parts of documents that are exempt. Exempt documents may include those relating to national security, documents containing material obtained in confidence, or other matters set out in the FOI Act. Other occasions when we may deny access to personal information include where release of the information would have an unreasonable impact on the privacy of others.

While we will endeavour to ensure that the personal information collected from you is up to date accurate and complete, we will assume that any personal information provided by you is free from errors and omissions. If the applicant is able to establish that the information we hold about them is not accurate, complete or up to date, and the applicant requests us in writing to correct this information, we will then take reasonable steps to correct the information. You may request that we update or vary personal information that we hold about you using the contact details listed below.

If you wish to access information we hold about you please put your request in writing and send it to:

Email: raptor@iprimus.com.au

Phone: 0409800633

Retention

We retain your personal data only as long as necessary to provide you with our services and for legitimate and essential business purposes (such as maintaining the performance of our services), making data-driven business decisions about new features and offerings, complying with our legal obligations, and resolving disputes. Following this period, we will make sure the relevant personal data is deleted or anonymised.

Unsubscribe

Should you not wish to receive communications from us, you will have the option to unsubscribe on any email you receive from us or to indicate your communication preferences to us. Alternatively, you can contact us through our web site contact form, to unsubscribe from our communications.

What are 'cookies' and how do they work?

Our website uses cookies. Cookies are small data files that are downloaded from our web servers and stored on your hard drive.

A cookie is a string of letters and numbers that uniquely identify the computer you are using and the Username and password you may have used to register at the site. This enables the website to track the pages you have visited.

Most browsers can be configured to refuse to accept cookies. You can also delete cookies from your hard drive. However, doing so may hinder your access to valuable areas of information within our site.

We will not be responsible for any damage to your computer or hard drive from cookies. You can set your browser to refuse cookies, however, this may mean you are unable to take full advantage of our website.

Your rights

Under European Union law, the General Data Protection Regulation or "GDPR" gives certain rights to applicable individuals in relation to their personal data. Accordingly, we have implemented additional transparency and access measures to help you take advantage of those rights (to the extent they are applicable).

Depending on the country in which you live in, the rights you have may include:

- Accessing, correcting, updating, or requesting deletion of your information.
- Objecting to processing of your information, asking us to restrict processing of your information, or requesting the portability of your information.
- Opting out from receiving marketing communications that we send you at any time.
- Withdrawing your consent at any time if we have collected and processed your information with your consent. Withdrawing your consent will not affect the lawfulness of any processing that we conducted prior to your withdrawal, nor will it affect processing of your information conducted in reliance on lawful processing grounds other than consent.
- Complaining to a data protection authority about our collection and use of your information. For more information, please contact your local data protection authority. Contact details for data protection authorities in the European Union are available at: http://ec.europa.eu/justice/article-29/structure/data-protection-authorities/index_en.htm.

We respond to all requests that we receive from individuals who wish to exercise their data protection rights in accordance with applicable data protection laws. You can contact us by sending an email to raptor@iprimus.com.au

What if I have a complaint?

If you have a complaint about our dealings with personal information, this policy or an alleged breach of the Australian Privacy Principles you have the right to expect that we will handle it in a friendly and professional way.

When we receive a complaint we look on it as valuable feedback that may help us to improve the services we offer and to ensure your needs are met in a satisfactory and appropriate manner.

If you wish to complain at any time about the handling, use or disclosure of your personal information just write to us at the following email address: raptor@iprimus.com.au

We will make all efforts possible to investigate your complaint within 20 days and advise you of the outcome as soon as possible within 40 days of you making the complaint.

Changes to this Privacy Policy

We reserve the right to change, modify or update this privacy policy from time to time to take into account of any new laws and technology, changes to our functions and activities, and to make sure it remains appropriate. Where we make changes to this privacy policy we will update the policy by posting the revised version on our website. The revised version shall take effect immediately upon posting. You should therefore refer to this privacy policy on our website regularly.

Raptor Ridge Ranch Pty Ltd

Email: raptor@iprimus.com.au

Phone 0409800633